Consider one of the National Contract Management Association's two distinct group memberships for your organization. Your team will love you!

"I want to purchase NCMA memberships for my team of 20. I want to pay in full for everyone's membership."

You are looking for an Organizational Group Membership. The company owns the membership. The company contacts a dedicated NCMA staff member and purchases a group of 20 memberships, for example. The company sends NCMA the names of all the new NCMA members at one time. (See pricing chart below.)

"I want to help reduce the cost of NCMA membership for my team. Each employee will be responsible for paying for his or her own membership; I just want to make it more cost effective for them."

You are looking for an Organizational Individual Membership. The company contacts NCMA and "buys down" the memberships for their members. Each company is able to negotiate a different deal based on how much they want to cover for their employees and the potential number of employees in their organizational membership. (See pricing chart below.)
