PHASE I: CONTRACT FORMATION

Activity 10: Types of Contracts

Determine the appropriate contract type based on the requirements, pertinent factors, and potential risks.

- Consider if one of the indefinite-delivery contracts is appropriate for the requirement.
- Consider if one of the cost-reimbursement contracts is appropriate for the requirement.
- Consider if one of the fixed-price contracts is appropriate for the requirement.
- Consider if fixed-price with economic price adjustment is appropriate for the requirement.
- Determine if fixed-price with economic price adjustment is appropriate for the requirement.
- Determine if fixed-price incentive contract is appropriate for the requirement.
- Determine if a fixed-price contract with an award fee is appropriate for the requirement.
- Determine if a fixed-price contract with price redetermination is appropriate for the requirement.
- Determine if firm-fixed-price contract is appropriate for the requirement.
- Determine if a firm-fixed-price, level-of-effort term contract is appropriate for the requirement.
- Determine if a cost-sharing contract is appropriate for the requirement.
- Determine if a cost-plus-award-fee contract is the appropriate cost reimbursable contract for the requirement.
- Determine if a cost-plus-fee contract is the appropriate contract for the requirement.
- Determine if a cost-plus-fee contract with price redetermination is the appropriate contract for the requirement.
- Determine if a cost-plus-fixed-fee contract is the appropriate cost reimbursable contract for the requirement.
- Determine if a cost-reimbursement contract is the appropriate contract for the requirement.
- Determine if a time-and-materials (T&M) or labor-hour contract is appropriate for the requirement.
- Determine if a definite quantity contract is appropriate for the requirement.
- Determine if an indefinite-quantity contract is appropriate for the requirement.
- Consider whether a requirements contract is appropriate for the requirement.
